Letter of Intent for Erasmus+ KA171 Cooperation and Strategic Academic Partnership

Dear Sir/Madam,

On behalf of the Faculty of Islamic Sciences, Prince of Songkla University, Thailand, we are pleased to formally express our strong interest in establishing a collaborative academic partnership with Świętokrzyska Szkoła Wyższa (ŚSW) within the framework of the Erasmus+ KA171 International Credit Mobility (ICM) Programme.

Prince of Songkla University, as a leading public university in Southern Thailand, is deeply committed to internationalization, intercultural dialogue, and socially responsive higher education. In particular, the Faculty of Islamic Sciences—through its Islamic Educational Administration and Management Program (IEAMP)—focuses on leadership development, multicultural education, and community-engaged learning in diverse and plural societies. We have followed with great interest ŚSW's academic achievements and its active role in the Demos Kratos European University Alliance, which strongly resonates with our institutional vision.

Our immediate objective is to establish an Erasmus+ KA171 cooperation framework emphasizing credit-bearing student mobility and staff mobility for teaching and professional training. These exchanges will support capacity building in educational leadership, Islamic education, multicultural studies, and social sciences, while enhancing global employability, intercultural competence, and innovative pedagogical practices among students and academic staff of both institutions.

Beyond mobility, we envisage a long-term strategic partnership encompassing joint research initiatives, collaborative academic publications, curriculum co-development, and capacity-building projects. By aligning our academic strengths with the principle of the Union of Science and Business, we aim to bridge higher education with societal and labor-market needs, particularly in areas related to inclusive education, ethical leadership, and sustainable community development.

We firmly believe that cooperation between Prince of Songkla University and Świętokrzyska Szkoła Wyższa will contribute meaningfully to international academic collaboration, intercultural understanding, and sustainable institutional development. We look forward to the opportunity of developing a fruitful and long-lasting partnership under the Erasmus+ KA171 framework.

Sincerely yours,
